Government ties old Lab blast to leukemia cases

Exposure was within federal limits

Government officials have acknowledged that at least six persons who observed a Lawrence Livermore Laboratory - sponsored atomic blast test 20 years ago have contracted leukemia.

A spokesman for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said that the relatively high percentage of cases from a group of 2,200 who watched the blast is "right on the edge" of demonstrating a correlation between the cancer and the low radiation doseage from the bomb.

Three possible additional cases are still being investigated. A seventh confirmed case, the CDC spokesman said, would place the correlation virtually beyond the realm of chance.

Approximately 2,230 military men observed the August 31, 1957 open - atmosphere detonation of "Smoky," a 40-kiloton blast exploded as part of an LLL-sponsored experiment at the Nevada Test Site located 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

Following an 11-kiloton blast two days later, soldiers conducted maneuvers simulating a defense of Las Vegas near "ground zero," the center of the detonation.

The Army is now attempting to locate the other personnel involved in the maneuvers to check their medical condition.

Multiple records show that radiation exposure among the troops was far below the federal radiation safety standards established by the Atomic Energy Commission (now the Department of Energy) in the 1950s. Those radiation standards are still in force today.

The CDC spokesman, cancer epidemiologist Dr. Glynn Caldwell, said that one would normally find only about two cases of leukemia over a 20-year period in an average selection of 2,200 people.

If Caldwell's search affirms an unusually high rate of leukemia among "Smoky" blast veterans, government officials say it would provide the strongest evidence to date that low-level radiation poses a serious health hazard to man.

A Las Vegas woman last year filed suit against the government, claiming her husband died of leukemia contracted after an underground atomic test blast in 1970 accidently vented into the atmosphere. That test, code-named "Banebury," was also sponsored by the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Victim

Wind gusting up to 48 mph claimed this 30-foot Monterey Pine in a Livermore front yard Sunday night. The season's biggest storm blew hard into Northern California but caused fewer inconveniences in the Valley than elsewhere.

Phil Lewis ducks the rain at an AC Transit bus stop in Pleasanton. Many showed up at local stops hoping the strike would break.

I-580 clogged

The impact of that AC driver walkout

Thousands of Valley residents were stranded yesterday when the AC Transit buses that normally take them to work, school, and shopping centers, did not show up due to a strike.

"I'm afraid it's going to be a long one," said District 5 BART Director Robert S. Allen about the strike that prevents East Bay commuters from linking up with the rapid transit.

AC Transit bus drivers and management stuck to their promise of walking off the job if contract negotiations were not settled by midnight Sunday. A spokesman for Amalgamated Transit Union Division 192 said they are not satisfied with a pension clause they claim is lower than in other transit districts in California.

"The union is stupid for going on strike," Allen told The Times yesterday in an effort to "let off some steam" about the issue. "They're destroying the whole concept of transit dependability," he added.

According to Allen, about 15,000 Valley residents depended on AC buses to get to BART stations at Bayfair and Hayward. Another 11,000 Valley patrons depended on AC Transit to reach the Walnut Creek area.

We weather the first storm

Hit by winds near 50 mph and drenched by over 1.38 inches of rain in 24 hours, the Valley still weathered its biggest storm of the season quite well.

Steady rain and gale warnings Sunday night and Monday kept the California Highway Patrol and Pacific Gas & Electric crews busy but not overwhelmed by a stream of minor problems.

PG&E workers spent about an hour restoring power to 800 to 1,000 Pleasanton homes and Foothill High School after lines blew together and short circuited about noon yesterday. Electricity returned but not before the students were dismissed early.

A PG&E spokesman said the outage was the area's largest and added that high winds in the early afternoon had kept the crews busy with a flood of smaller, isolated incidents.

Livermore Municipal Airport reported winds hit 48 mph briefly about noon but ranged between 25 and 32 mph most of the day.

The CHP reported no major accidents in the Valley but a rash of "fender benders" kept officers and tow truck operators busy.

"We've had accidents all over the place," said one tow truck dispatcher.

But the dispatcher at CHP headquarters in Oakland pointed out, "It wasn't as bad as it could have been with the first rain and the AC Transit strike on."

It was not the first rain of the official "season" in weather terms but yesterday weathermen were saying it would be the first sustained storm and the first to promise any real relief drought relief for Northern California.

Officials at the East Bay Municipal Utilities District said the parched watershed needed at least two inches of rain before the reservoirs could profit from any runoff but a spokesman at the national Weather Service said chances were good the Bay Area would receive more than that this week.

"This is certainly a better storm than what we've had in a long time. It's more like the winter storms we used to have before the drought," said forecaster Phil Swain.

The weather service reported satellite photos showed a storm track of four separate fronts moving from the mid-Pacific Ocean toward the California coast at 30-40 mph, each bringing more rain. The extended forecast is now for scattered showers through Thanksgiving Day.

Park committee meets

DUBLIN — The Valley Community Services District Citizens' Advisory Committee on Parks and Recreation will convene tonight at 8 p.m. in the VCSD board conference room, 7051 Dublin Blvd., Dublin.

Items to be discussed are a summer evaluation report, Dublin Sports Grounds Tot Lot, opening flood control channels for bike paths and outlining a second community workshop.

Education writers speak

A panel of three Valley newspaper education writers will discuss their views as to what are the "Issues and Answers" in local education at a meeting of Diablo Chapter, Phi Delta Kappa, Thursday, Dec. 1.

The Phi Delta Kappa dinner and panel discussion will be held at the San Ramon Country Club, beginning with a no-host cocktail hour at 6 p.m. The dinner will start at 6:30.

All reservations must be made by Nov. 23. Persons wishing to attend the dinner and program should call Jim Scott at 462-4100.

Members of the panel will be Joan Boer of The Independent, Pat Kennedy of the Tri-Valley News and Al Fischer of The Times.

Recreation plans out

Thousands of winter recreation department brochures will be delivered to Pleasanton doorsteps next week as the department kicks off its new mail-in registration system.

The newspaper style brochures wrapped in plastic list all winter classes, programs and special events planned for December through March. The brochure also explains mail-in registration which is being used on a trial basis this winter.

Director Bob Caporusso says this trial is expected to alleviate problems for people who formerly had a difficult time driving to the recreation office or to classes to register. Mail-in registation begins as soon as the brochures are delivered, but the department will not accept in-person registration until Dec. 27.

Gilbert Messa

Boys Club founder dead

Gilbert E. Messa, an outstanding athlete from Pleasanton who started the Boys Club of America in the area and later became its regional director, died Sunday, Nov. 20, 1977 at his home in Livermore. He was 50.

"Gil," as he was known among friends, graduated from Amador Valley High School where he was "quite an athlete" in baseball, football, and basketball, and joined the Marines during World War II.

After serving in San Diego, he returned to the Valley and expanded his activities with youth and sports. He started a Little League baseball team in Pittsburg, and played on local merchant teams and pitched for "Tex's Flying A's."

Once he tried out for the Pittsburg Pirates and hit two home runs, and a triple but turned the offer down because it didn't pay more than his job with Pacific Coast Aggregates. He later worked as a deputy with Alameda County Sheriffs and then moved to San Mateo becoming Regional Director of the Boys Club of America. Holding that position he moved to Chicago, Ill. until several months ago when he returned to Livermore. Mr. Messa is survived by his wife, Lorene A. Messa; a son Steve Messa and a daughter Debbie Messa both of Livermore; and a daughter Marjorie Messa of Mill Valley. He is also survived by a broth Elwood Messa of Livermore, and a sister, Zelpha Eager of Sacramento. A prayer vigil will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Graham-Hitch Mortuary, 675 St. John St. Pleasanton. A mass of the Resurrection will be said Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. in St. Augustine's Catholic Church, 900 East Angela St. Plesanton, followed with burial in St. Augustine's Cemetery.

Contributions may be made to the Boys Club of America.

Blew the roof off Pleasanton sewage plant

PLEASANTON — Yesterday's storm brought the smell of rotten eggs, as well as rain and wind back to town, when the heavy wind ripped the protective dome off the Sunol Sewage Treatment Plant's trickling filter system.

That plastic dome was installed over three years ago after the city was ordered by the state to stop stink emanating from the plant and waifing over Mission Park homes nearby.

A city hall spokesman said a new dome is hoped for within 30 days.

Surprise from a Chowchilla witness

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — An environmental expert testifying in the Chowchilla kidnapping trial revealed Monday that he relied on his 14-year-old college notes — and on another witness — to prepare his sworn testimony for the prosecution.

Dr. Maurice Oberg was under cross-examination by the defense when he made the surprise statement that another witness — Dr. Bruce Dickerson — had provided revised calculations of heat and humidity in the buried kidnap van.

Oberg had submitted the revised figures to the court as his own report.

"The calculations were done for me while I was on my trip back East," said Oberg. "Dr. Dickerson did them for me."

"Oh," gasped an astonished defense attorney, Herbert Yanowitz. He asked Oberg to elaborate.

"I do not know the exact nature by which the calculations were performed," Oberg conceded.

The new figures submitted as evidence by Oberg intensified the estimate of heat endured by 26 school children and a bus driver during their underground imprisonment.

Oberg, who had earlier set the heat level at a maximum 75 degrees, now said that it probably reached a high of 82.9 degrees.

"Is it my understanding that you don't know what Dr. Dickerson did, that he just gave you this figure?" Yanowitz asked.

"That's correct," the witness said.

Then he volunteered that he had checked up on the factors involved in Dickerson's evaluation of the ventilation system in the underground van.

"I reviewed my lecture notes," Oberg said, and then explained these were the notes he took as a student working for his master's degree 14 years ago.

No signals yet

PLEASANTON — Hope that the Main Street traffic signals will be up by Thanksgiving is fading now in the city's engineering department.

The two signals scheduled to go up at Neal and Main streets and St. John and Main streets Oct. 25 have met with one problem after another causing the long delay, according to traffic engineer Ken Lamb.

The controllers for the signals were finally received by the city last week. But now the hand-crafted heads especially designed to match the coach lamps on Main are behind schedule. Lamb says the contractor for those heads is a young individual who met with financial problems causing the delay.

Thefts rise over weekend

LIVERMORE — TWO UNLOCKED doors permitted burglars to enter a Hayes Court residence Sunday and take more than $300 in cash, police reported yesterday.

Roy Lee Allen told police that his garage door and interior access door were both left unlocked. Burglars took $300 cash from a bedroom dresser drawer.

There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — BURGLARS ENTERED an unlocked garage door Saturday and stole more than $300 worth of goods from a Lakehurst Road home, police reported.

Bernard Shay reported the theft of two bicycles and a skateboard. There are no suspects.

PLEASANTON — A TULIPWOOD Circle home was burglarized of approximately $2,000 in household goods Friday which were almost totally recovered from a nearby creek area shortly after the burglary, police reported.

Burglars pried the rear sliding glass door to Loren Anderson's home and ransacked the house completely, police said.

Police lifted several fingerprints from inside the house and found property apparently belonging to the suspects. Most of the missing property was later found in a dry creekbed near the residence.

Witnesses reported seeing a young man exit the house carrying some property. Still reported as missing are two guns, a .38-caliber handgun and a .22-caliber rifle with a scope.

The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — THIEVES WHO took an electric pump from an equipment room at Granada High School Saturday apparently hid in a nearby restroom the night before, police reported.

The burglars probably hid out during a dance at the gym the previous night, police said, and went to work after everyone else had gone.

Burglars pried off a screen and lifted a metal - louvered window to gain access to the equipment room where they took a $60 pump. The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — TWO JUVENILES distracted a Long Drugs' clerk Friday while a third youth removed approximately $30 from a cash register, police reported.

A cash register bell sounded and the clerk turned around to see one young suspect taking money from the till. The youths fled the store and got away.

LIVERMORE — A 17-YEAR-OLD youth who allegedly stashed two bottles of bourbon in his waistband and left the Flair Market without paying for them was arrested and booked on suspicion of burglary, police reported.

The youth reportedly paid for a lesser-priced item and left the store. He was arrested outside the Rincon Avenue business and taken back inside. Police said he allegedly tried to slug a guard and break free but was overpowered.

LIVERMORE — TWO COUNTERFEIT quarters were pulled from a pinball machine at the Granada Bowl Saturday, police reported.

The quarters, dated 1928 and 1938, were made of a lightweight metal, police reported.

VANDALS THIS WEEKEND caused minimal damage in the Valley, police reported.

LIVERMORE — Vandals drove their car over the fairway at the Las Positas Golf Course, tearing up the lawn.

Rocks were thrown through a four by five foot plate glass window at a Mohawk Drive residence.

PLEASANTON — Pellets shattered the driver's side window to a vehicle traveling westbound on Valley Avenue towards Santa Rita Road.

Vandals slashed the convertible top to a vehicle parked in a Bernal Avenue apartment complex, causing an estimated $150 damage.

Fighting vandalism in Dublin

DUBLIN — A steering committee consisting of 15 local agency representatives is searching for ways to curtail vandalism in Dublin and San Ramon.

The group met yesterday at Shannon Community Center to discuss the issue. The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) is sponsoring the effort, according to Brian May. He is VCSD's senior recreation supervisor.

Those attending the planning meeting were May, Dr. Jessie Kobayashi, superintendent of Murray School District; Candy Ingram with Hotline; Janet Flood, a Sergeant with the Alameda County Sheriff's Department; Don Cordes, Alameda County Sheriff's Department and David Bricknell, County Sheriff's Department Alameda Area Detective.

Also, Heinz Gewing, assistant superintendent of Murray School District; Pat Butts, coordinator of neighborhood safety projects for Contra Costa County's Crime Prevention Committee; Carol Hendrickson, chairperson for the San Ramon Committee for Crime Prevention and Virginia Loewe, administrative aide to Alameda County's first district Supervisor Valerie Raymond.

Others were Lila Euler, VCSD director; Christine Schnitzer, VCSD recreation supervisor; Darryl Carter, Murray School District business manager; Pete Hegarty, VCSD Citizens' Advisory Committee and Dave Rezendez with Security Eye Patrol, Inc.

The steering committee's first goal is to have a symposium involving community residents — both adults and younger people. The aims of the symposium would be to make community citizens aware of the extent of the vandalism problem, enlist citizen help and ask for suggestions on solving the problem.

A second goal is to coordinate efforts of residents, representatives of law enforcement and other local governmental agencies. A series of workshops was suggested to implement this coordination.

A tentative target date set for the symposium is "sometime in February," according to May.

A prior planning session was held Oct. 20. Several other agency representatives attended that meeting. They laid groundwork for the steering committee.

Law enforcement representatives pointed out 90 per cent of vandalism in Dublin-San Ramon is done by a group of 25 to 30 "repeaters."

Alcohol, drugs plus lack of parental caring and control contribute to a juvenile's disregard of the law, committee members agreed.

Also, since both husband and wife usually work away from home, they aren't as aware of vandalism.

"By the time these people get home they're too tired to care about community problems," said one panel member. "Other people just don't pay attention to what is going on around them."

Teaching juveniles and adults to take pride in their community could act as a preventative measure where vandalism is concerned, committee members agreed.

Bingo bill pleases

PLEASANTON — Aside from making bingo legal, the new ordinance being proposed by the city attorney's office should also make running bingo games easier for charitable organizations, according to representatives of bingo-prone groups in town.

"When people are drinking they have a tendency to get confused. They can't follow the game as well and they forget if the game they're playing costs 10 cents or 25 cents. It'll make things easier for our record keeping," said Bob Steffenauer, explaining why the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion support the no-drinking rule of the proposed ordinance.

The veterans sold out a bingo game this past Saturday evening — a game the city approved even though bingo is still officially illegal until the proposed ordinance is approved by council members when it goes before the city council Nov. 29.

Bingo has been legal in town only if the organizations running the games didn't charge for each bingo card. Entrance fees to the "event" were legal and asking donations were approved. But if the requested "donation" was 25 cents a card, one could not stop an individual from grabbing five cards for the price of one because it was, after all, only a donation.

Treading that type of never-ever-land legality was sometimes cumbersome and irritating to Shirley Hagmaier, organizer of St. Augustine Catholic Church's social events.

" This will allow us to be more fair to all playing in our games," she says.

This ordinance will be the final legislative act needed to make the game legal in town. It follows two bills passed by the state legislature: the first allowed churches and other specialized charitable groups to conduct games if approved by city or county, while the second expanded the list to include mobile homeowner associations, senior citizens groups and other recreational organizations. But both those laws were contingent on the city passing a bingo ordinance.

Under the proposed ordinance written by deputy city attorney Harvey Levine, groups would have to apply to the police department for a bingo permit and would have to report income from the games to the city.

Chowchilla testimony

Yanowitz demanded that the notes be brought to court and the witness was ordered to comply.

The latest developments weakened the prosecution's effort to add scientific support to its case against the three confessed kidnappers.

The defendants — James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26 — are on trial for kidnapping with bodily harm. The state must prove that harm was done to the 27 kidnap victims during their July 1976 ordeal of captivity in order for the defendants to be sentenced to life in prison without possibility of parole.

The victims have given emotional testimony about the heat and suffocating airlessness in the van. The state is attempting to prove that the atmosphere could have been deadly for the victims had they not clawed their way out of their underground cell.

Oberg testimony came after a 12-day recess necessitated by the witness' commitment to a business trip. It was during the recess that his report was completely revised.

Murray kids talk turkey

At least five classes in the Murray School District are going to have their turkey— "with all the trimmins"— a day early this year.

And in the case of the first graders of Mrs. Margaret Retzloff and and Mrs. Barbara Gifford at Dublin Elementary School, the feast will be today.

The "full-fledged" dinner will be served right in the classroom with youngsters dressed as pilgrims. Art, language arts and social studies activities are being used to organize and carry out the preparation and planning for the dinner.

At Donlon School in Pleasanton, the kindergarten students of Joanne Augusta, Julie Silva and Mary Jane Woods will have their annual Thanksgiving meal on Wednesday.

Parents and teachers will be assisting in preparation of the main course, drinks and dessert.

* * *

Barbara Gifford's first graders at Dublin made Halloween decorations for the Rossmoor Manor Convalescent Hospital during the week of Oct. 17.

The decorations were original cut and paste pictures made from orange, black and white construction paper. The children were excited and motivated that their work would benefit the sick and elderly pople and cheer them up.

The children received a warm thank you note from Rossmoor Manor, which is located in Walnut Creek. The note mentioned how happy and pleased the patients were with the kind gesture of the children.

Year-round programs held

SAN RAMON— Informational coffees on the proposed year-round school program will be held Dec. 1, 8 and 15 at 10 a.m. at the San Ramon School District's Instructional Materials Center on Crow Canyon Road.

The coffes are open to the public and are designed to give residents from the four target school areas a chance to share ideas and concerns on the plan.

Bud Lowrey, temporary year-round schools coordinator, will be on hand to discuss the year-round program.

Further information on the meetings can be obtained by contacting Lowrey at 820-2611.

Author speaks tonight

George Leonard, author and social commentator, is salated as the sixth speaker in the Livermore school district's "Awareness in Education" lecture series tonight at 7 o'clock at St. Charles Borromeo Church, 1315 Lomitas Ave.

The author of "Education and Ecstasy" and a former editor of "Look" magazine for 17 years, Leonard's topic is scheduled to be "Education: Can't-Do and Can-Do," overcoming limitations in education.

Leonard hws written essays on education, race relations, politics, foreign affairs and the arts arts and many were published in his collection of 1970 collection of essays "The Man and Woman Thing and other Productions."

Dickens in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON— Pleasanton School's advance drama class will present "Dickens' Christmas Carol" Dec. 8 and 9 at the school multipurpose room.

Curtain each evening will be 7:30 p.m. Tickets priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students will be available at the door.

SR may get double sessions

DANVILLE — Bud Lowrey, coordinator for the Year Round School Project, told San Ramon District trustees last night that there is the likelihood of double sessions in 1978-79.

Addressing the board in darkness, after power had gone out to an area north of Sycamore Road at 8:08 p.m., Lowrey said surveys on year round schools were now out to parents and district employees.

He said question and answer packets would be ready for distributiion by Dec. 2.

Current information meetings at each of the four schools proposed to be part of the program would take place between Dec. 5 and 16.

The school board earlier this month approved a Citizens Committee for Year Round Schools report that suggests year round programs for Walt Disney, Greenbrook, Twin Creeks and Montevideo.

But the final decision on whether any or all of these schools will go to a 45/15 system starting in July, 1978, probably will come at the board meeting Jan. 9, 1978.

The 45/15 system refers to 45 days of school followed by 15 days vacation.

Lowrey, a district principal, has been charged with informing parents and district employees of the YRS system.

He also told board members last night that a cost model from Stanford Research Institute was quite complex.

He said an SRI representative had promised a simplified report by early December.

Financial data will be available to the district on Dec. 12.

Trustees also heard a review of test scores by Syma Hasseltine, district director of evaluation, and okayed Del Amigo's application for AB 65 planning grant funds.

With the lights out because of the power failure, most of those giving reports up through 9 p.m. were forced to do so via one large flashlight available in the district board room.

Trustees also approved six new adult education courses. The California Assessment Program test scores review, the report by Lowrey, and the application for AB 65 planning grant funds topped last night's agenda.

Making kids' play pay off

The "Play Express" is coming to Dublin!

A program utilizing cooperative games to stimulate and promote a more positive interaction in the play experiences of children, the two-hour workshop scheduled for Monday, Dec. 5 will be held at the Dublin School multipurpose room at 2:15 p.m.

Dale LeFevre and Nancy Smedley, consultants with New Games Foundation, will conduct the workshop.

Main goals of the program are 1) decrease the pattern of disruptive and violent activity which occurs on playgrounds and increase positive intraction between children by providing a model of cooperative play for self-directed group behavior that can include all children, and 2) provide a resource of adults prepared to facilitate play activities.

The Play Express program involves parents, school personnel, and the larger community in the educational process as resource people alongside faculty and students.

A key feature of the program is that it provides a means for all members of the educational community to interact in a positive common experience, where each individual has the opportunity to participate openly and fully while at the same time experiencing the giving and receiving of support from others.

This workshop will introduce the program and implementation guidelines to workshop participants.

It is open to parents, teachers, and administrators. There will be no fee or pre-registration for this workshop.

Volunteers for elderly sought

Alameda County Library Services is looking for volunteers to work with senior citizen outreach.

Convalescent hospitals in Fremont, San Lorenzo and Castro Valley need volunteers to take books, records and cassettes to their patients and several shut - in people have asked for books to be delivered.

One of the program's most urgent needs is for a volunteer to either read or operate cassette players. One blind patient is especially in need of the pastime to bolster her spirits, said the library system.

Anyone with experience in running a 16 millimeter movie projector or who wishes to learn how is needed to operate projectors for senior film programs.

People of various talents interested in presenting programs at libraries, hospitals or senior center are also being sought.

Anyone interested in volunteering or who needs shut - in service, call Ruth Peterson, 791-4787.

And there doesn't seem to be much the city can do about the delay, according to Lamb. He feels the city can't sue the controller manufacturer because, although the controllers were late, they have nothing to do with the extra delay caused by the late signal heads.

What can the city do? Hope, says Lamb.

That advise particularly pertains to downtown merchants who have been waiting for those signals to reduce the traffic problem in front of their stores. The Christmas shopping season begins Thanksgiving weekend and merchants were counting on those signals to encourage more shoppers to venture onto Main Street.

Leahy concerns: recreation, vandals

LIVERMORE — Recreational programs and vandalism came to the forefront in a recent survey sample at Leahy Square by the Social Concerns Committee.

The survey was aimed at determining the needs of residents as preparation for programs in the Multi-Service Center are being drawn up. This marks one of two surveys recently completed at Leahy Square. The other survey, still being processed, was conducted by the Tenants' Association in a detailed 15-page questionaire on all aspects of living in the housing project.

The Social Concerns Committee made specific efforts to include representative portions of men in their survey, as well as the five main ethnic groups living there in order to get a rounded out picture of needs for all segments of the Leahy population.

The report noted "An overwhelming majority of the residents felt that recreational programs were needed, particularly by teenagers and by children between the ages of 5 and 12 years of age." Respondents felt available playgrounds were inadequate, in number and size, and suggested or complained about improvements.

Vandalism and burglary were considered problems at Leahy Square by the vast majority, although they felt that these crimes had decreased recently. Increased police protection was frequently cited as a deterrent to vandalism, as well as stricter rules, insistence that each tenant pay for the damages and better secured houses. Some said that people causing the problems had moved in the last six months, sometimes evicted, easing the situation.

Results of the survey indicated there are about 15 services which residents feel they particularly need, and the majority of these services will be offered in the Multi-Service Center. The three often requested, but not yet included in the Center, were employment services (job placement), recreation and senior citizens services. The survey concluded these services may be considered by the Center Advisory Board and administration.

The most often mentioned services were health care, welfare services, employment services, children's services and recreation for all ages. Since 25 per cent of the respondents will need bi-lingual assistance, it could suggest the need for a bilingual receptionist as an essential part of the center, the survey concluded.

Residents commented on various services, from alcohol abuse to legal services. The legal aid services were cited as being too far (in Hayward) or too expensive. Transportation is a problem for Leahy residents, as indicated in their responses to questions in that area. Buses come infrequently and only during rush hours, cabs are too expensive and Dial-A-Ride was appreciated by senior citizens, but was "not very dependable, and required making appointments for a ride a week in advance."

Health Care Center in Pleasanton received good comments, and Valley Memorial Hospital provided "good, speedy care." But some felt Health Care Center was too far away.

The survey indicated 42 per cent of respondents would prefer to use the Multi-Service Center during the afternoons, 24 per cent in the mornings and 14 per cent in the evenings. The survey recommended the center focus on afternoon services but provide some a services a few hours each morning and at least one night a week.

Horseshoeing competition draws close attention of a judge.

California State Farriers exhibit Saturday at Fairgrounds included a horseshoeing competition.

Allen angered by AC strike

One Livermore resident, Margaret Stafford, who was standing in the rain yesterday taking a chance the buses would run, said AC Transit was her only hope for getting some holiday shopping done. "I don't drive the freeway," she said. "How's a person like me going to get anywhere way out here in Livermore."

Director Allen, who tried personally to get BART workers to post strike warnings at bus stops, pointed out that people who depended on buses to get to dentists and doctors were also out of luck. "Seven out of eight doctors and dentists are within a third of a mile from bus stops," he noted.

"It hurts the environment of the whole area," Allen said. "Now, more and more people will be driving their cars and jamming up the freeway."

A spokesman for the California Highway Patrol said things were "pretty bad" yesterday morning due to the strike and a driving rain. He said traffic on I-580 was backed up more than usual as was traffic on Interstate 80 which had cars lined up all the way to Hilltop Road.

On the whole, some 230,000 passengers ride AC buses daily. Officials for AC said this figure is broken down into:

- 40,000 who commute transbay
- 120,000 who ride buses in the East Bay
- 57,000 school children who depend on AC
- 13,000 senior citizens and handicapped who ride AC.

Allen said if the strike continues next week, he will propose to find alternative transportation at the BART Board of Directors meeting Nov. 29.

The strike involves some 1,883 drivers, maintenance, and office personnel who voted in August to let the executive board of Local 192 handle negotiations. The Union's President, John Wesley, Jr., said he is seeking an improvement in the $260 per month pension paid currently to retired AC Transit employees.

"We want $800 to $900," Wesley said. "We gave them (AC company) a counterproposal on pensions based on the Sacramento Transit District tables, and that would have paid our members $700 monthly at retirement — AC rejected that."

The offer AC Transit made to the union over the weekend included a cost-of-living increase raising bus drivers' pay from $8.03 per hour to $8.29, in addition to some pension plan improvements, an extra holiday and other benefits.

After the union rejected the proposal, workers began picketing district bus stations at Fremont, Richmond, East Oakland, and Emeryville.

No new negotiations have been scheduled for the future, said Wesley, but state conciliator Joseph Andrews could reconvene both sides at any time.

The last strike in this AC district was in 1973 which shut down the system for over two months.

Country singer's show at Fairgrounds fizzles

Though two poultry shows, an Artists Co-Op art sale and a horseshoeing competition went off with relative success over the weekend, a Valley production company's initial big name show business venture was called off moments before it was to begfn.

The horseshoeing seminar, sponsored by a Bay Area chapter of the California State Farriers, was held Saturday at the Fairgrounds and brought together dozens of shoers. The seminar on the ancient craft concluded with a shoeing competition amongst nine craftsmen.

But the Donna Fargo and Company Show was plowed under by a disappointing advance sale.

Pleasant Productions had widely publicized the noted country and western singer from Nashville, but the net result was 72 persons in the Amphitheatre prior to show time Sunday evening.

Miss Fargo and her band had arrived in Pleasanton at 2 p.m. and were setup and ready when, by mutual consent, it was decided to cancel both the 5 and 7:30 p.m. shows.

The Pleasanton and Walnut Creek promoters had distributed some 10,000 flyers throughout the Valley and at the Merle Haggard-Marty Robbins concert at the Oakland Coliseum last week. In fact, a spokesman said he had gone back to the Coliseum parking lot to pickup flyers discarded on the grounds so as not to create a litter problem.

Advertising had been placed with 10 newspapers and with radio station KNEW.

By Friday, when the advance boded ill for recouping Miss Fargo's five-figure fee, the promoters took an informal poll of Valley residents at three Pleasanton lounges and several shopping centers.

They learned that while many people were aware of who Miss Fargo was, few planned to attend.

Still, of those tickets sold, most were purchased by women, according to the promoters.

Promoters were hoping for a big sale at the Amphitheatre gates Sunday but only 17 tickets were sold.

Persons purchasing tickets who wish a refund should direct their request to Pleasant Productions, P.O. Box 1173, Pleasanton, Calif. 94566.

Miss Fargo reportedly left Sunday night for her home in Nashville. Her next engaqement is in Las Vegas.

Promoters of the ill-fated show said they still have tentative plans to bring in a major country and western artist this May.

How artists will adorn new Dublin library

DUBLIN — A vertically-oriented sculpture for the front entrance and a light-reflecting sculpture hung from the ceiling near the reference desk are the leading objets d'art for the new library.

The Alameda County Art Commission will talk about drawing up the application form next month for artists to submit designs for the two sculptures. The county has budgeted approximately $9,000 for the two original works.

Groundbreaking for the new library on Amador Valley Boulevard next to Albertson's is scheduled in another month or two.

The next county art commission meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Dec. 14 in Room 536 of the county administration building, 1221 Oak St., Oakland.

Lab's HOME

Charity drive has local slant

The Lawrence Livermore Laboratory is one of the growing number of facilities to organize and run a yearly charity campaign independant of a national organization.

This is the fourth year of the lab's HOME (Helping Others More Effectively) campaign. The impetus for HOME came from employees who wanted to give to charity, but also wanted more voice in the use of their contribution, explained HOME chairman Jim Hadley.

This year's goal is $115,000. The decision on where the money will go began months ago when the 14 members of the HOME committee sent letters to local groups inviting applications for HOME funds, said Hadley.

Members then went visited agencies that had responded, reviewed financial reports and tax papers and finally ranked agencies in order of preference by committee vote.

Buenas Vidas Ranch in Livermore was first on the list of nonUnited Way agencies. If the goal is reached, said Hadley, the ranch will receive $4000 for the coming year.

Hadley said he thought the reason Buenas Vidas Ranch was so well received was because of the large amount of volunteer help it gets. That is one of the things the committee looks for because, he said, it means the funds donated will be more effective than just paying agency staff.

The Livermore-Amador Emergency Fund Center will receive $3885 and the Health Care Concerns Committee will get $2200 if the goal is reached.

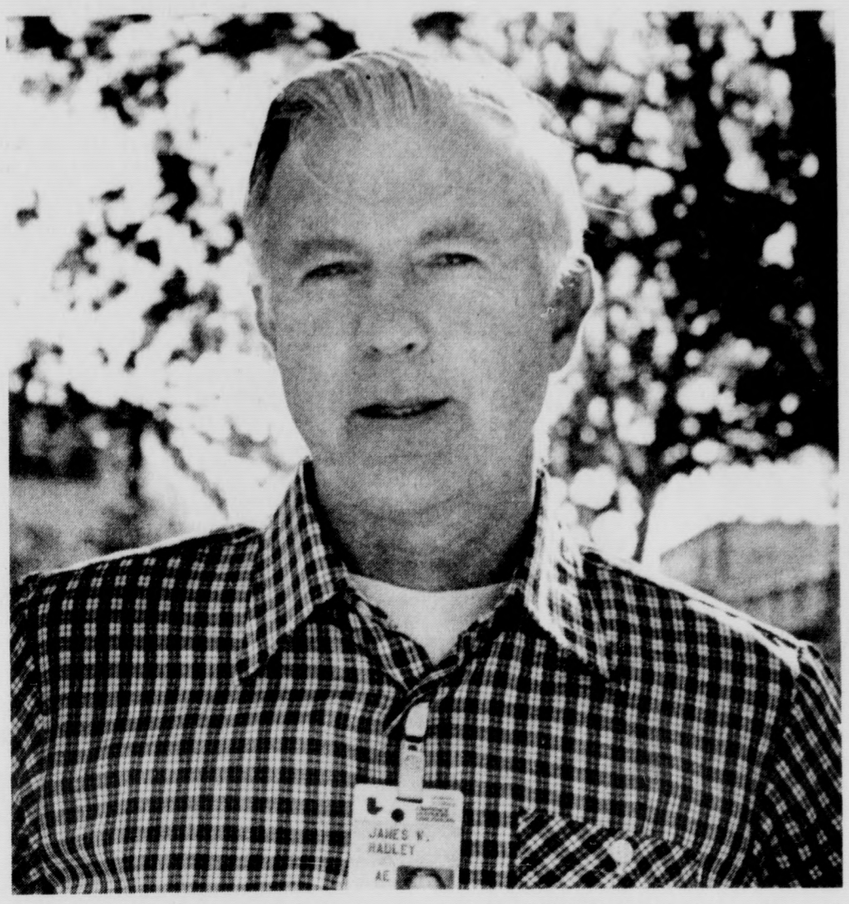
A total of 25 local non-United Way agencies will be allocated $40,252. The remaining $74,748 will be divided among United Way agencies in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties.

Last year about 2500 of the lab's 6000 employees contributed, according to Hadley, a lab physicist. He said no "arm twisting" is used to request donations. Instead each employee is handed a pledge card by a HOME representative.

The representative is there to answer questions, said Hadley. To avoid any arm twisting, every contribution is turned into to one person in the accounting office, said Hadley.

He believes in the no-pressure approach, but admits it would be nice to get as many contributions as companies of the same size that use a little more persuasion with its employees.

Still, he said he is happy with the help the lab is able to offer each year.



Jim Hadley is this year's chairman for the lab's HOME charity drive. He said he finds it a rewarding job and a change of pace from his duties as a physicist.

Employees can earmark their contribution to go to any of the non-United Way agencies, or to go expressly to United Way.

Continuity in funding is one of the guidelines the HOME committee tries to follow, said Hadley. Although the bylaws require that 25 local agencies be funded, each year agencies which submit an application are reranked.

Three new groups will be allocated funds this year, said Hadley. The Livermore Senior Citizens Center, the Valley Volunteer Bureau and Serra Residential Home for the mentally retarded will be the new recipients.

Last year, about 24 donation envelopes distributed to employees were returned with written comments indicating disatisfaction that some funds would go to Birthright, an organization dedicated to preganancy counseling but opposed to abortion.

This year, said Hadley, he has not heard a single complaint about Birthright, or another birth control group, Planned Parenthood.

Both organizations will receive $160 if the $115,000 goal is reached.

Garden mulch-making tips

The old sawdust on your workroom floor may be used to mulch your flower or vegetable garden this fall.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reminds us that mulching is a valuable garden practice, and their new booklet, Mulches For Your Garden tells you how to do it. For your copy, send 50 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 131E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Sawdust makes a better mulch if it is well-rotted, or if you add one or two cups of ammonium sulfate or sodium nitrate to each bushel of fresh sawdust before you spread the mulch.

Grass clippings may be used if mixed with other materials to keep the mulch from packing down.

Compost makes the best mulch, because it adds organic matter to the soil and furnishes food for earthworms. And the organic matter helps keep the soil crumbly and easy to work with.

Every gardener should have two compost bins for making compost from organic materials. Two are best because you'll have to turn the compost next spring. You can make these bins yourself by attaching ordinary wire fence or boards to four solid posts.

Each bin should be 3 by 5 feet wide and 4 to 6 feet high. Make one side removable for easy access to the bin.

Fill one bin with alternate layers of garden soil and any organic material like leaves, grass clippings, stems and stalks from harvested vegetables, corn husks, twigs, or pea hulls. Each layer should be about 6 to 12 inches thick. Add 1 cup per bushel of ammonium sulfate or ammonium nitrate (½ cup) and ground dolomitic limestone (⅔ cup); or woodashes (1½ cups) and superphosphate (½ cup) and magnesium sulfate (epsom salts) (1 tablespoon). Use this to mulch all plants except azaleas and rhododendron.

Moisten the organic material thoroughly. Repeat the layering process until the bin is full or you run out of material. Pack the material tightly around the edges, but only lightly in the center.

Around June, you can begin to turn the material by moving it from one bin to another.

You can mulch any time during the year. Fall mulching will help keep your plants from freezing during the winter. Spring mulching will help keep soil around plants moist. Spread mulch generously, 4 to 6 inches deep.

For a free copy of the catalog listing more than 200 federal publications of consumer interest listed in the Consumer Information Guide, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

MACHINES DON'T UNDERSTAND ME

It happened in the post office. It was nearly midnight. I had gone down to mail a letter, hoping to miss the crowds. I thought it would be a good time also to make copies of some valuable papers on the copy machine, get change from the change machine, buy stamps from the stamp machine, and just live it up, dropping in dimes and nickles and being served by those automated personages that are supposed to make life so much easier for us denizens of the machine age.

My heels clicked as I crossed the cold tile floor of the post office lobby. A dim, yellow light shone down on the dismal, quiet scene. The only sign of life in the place was the cheery colored lit-up sign on the copy machine and the gaily colored stamps displayed artistically in the stamp machine, with back lighting.

I was all set to enjoy the orderly process of putting in coins and being served. We of the Age of Science and Technology understand these situations. I fumbled through my purse for the proper coins. Franklin D. Roosevelt's metallic portrait smiled at me as I dropped a dime into the chrome-flanked slot.

I heard the dime chunging down the slot, then clinking against metal. The machine did not light up. The machine did not go on. The machine just sat there with its coin slot open and I peered into the dark slot, but could see nothing in the dim light.

I flipped the coin return, but it didn't seem to be connected to anything. No sound came from it. It simply went back into its original position without a klunk or a ping.

I tried it several times. No result. I looked in the coin return receptacle. Empty.

I pounded lightly on the top of the metal box. No result. No shifting into place, not a sound. My dime, and Franklin D. Roosevelt had disappeared. I thought it was a kind of kidnapping of an important personage. But the silence hung around, loitered around the post office lobby, and I gave the dumb machine a swift kick with my sneaker.

That was a mistake. I knew it the minute my big toe encountered the front of the cabinet which was probably made from ore mined from the Rock of Gibralter, and had the weight qualities of the good old rock. Next time I would wear safety shoes with metal toes.

A cracked toenail convinced me that the government had come upon a new way of getting money out of people.

I removed my valuable papers from the dark and mute machine, and resignedly started for the stamp machine to purchase some stamps. I put in my five quarters and a nickle. I pressed the button above the stamps I had selected. Nothing. My attention was diverted for a moment by a sign on the coin machine attached to the stamp machine. "Out of Order," was the hand printed scrawl.

I again pressed the button for the stamps. I pressed the button above the other stamp selections for the same amount of money. Nothing. I quickly pulled down on the coin return lever. Nothing. I returned to the silent buttons above the stamps. Nothing. Nothing. Nothing. I pound on the coin slot. Nothing. No jingling of money falling into the proper slot. No jangling of nice little gears sending me my stamps. No sound at all. "Wake up. Wake up., you Machine you... You're spoiling my whole evening.."

SOME TIMELY TIPS ON HOW TO LIFT

There are two million disabling accidents each year in industry Material-handling accounts for the greater number of serious injuries. The direct cause of this type of injury is, in the greater percentage, incorrect use of the muscles in lifting. This results almost invariably in strained backs.

The purpose of today's health column is to summarize the chiropractic profession's industrial accident experience and to point out how to prevent the accident before injury can occur.

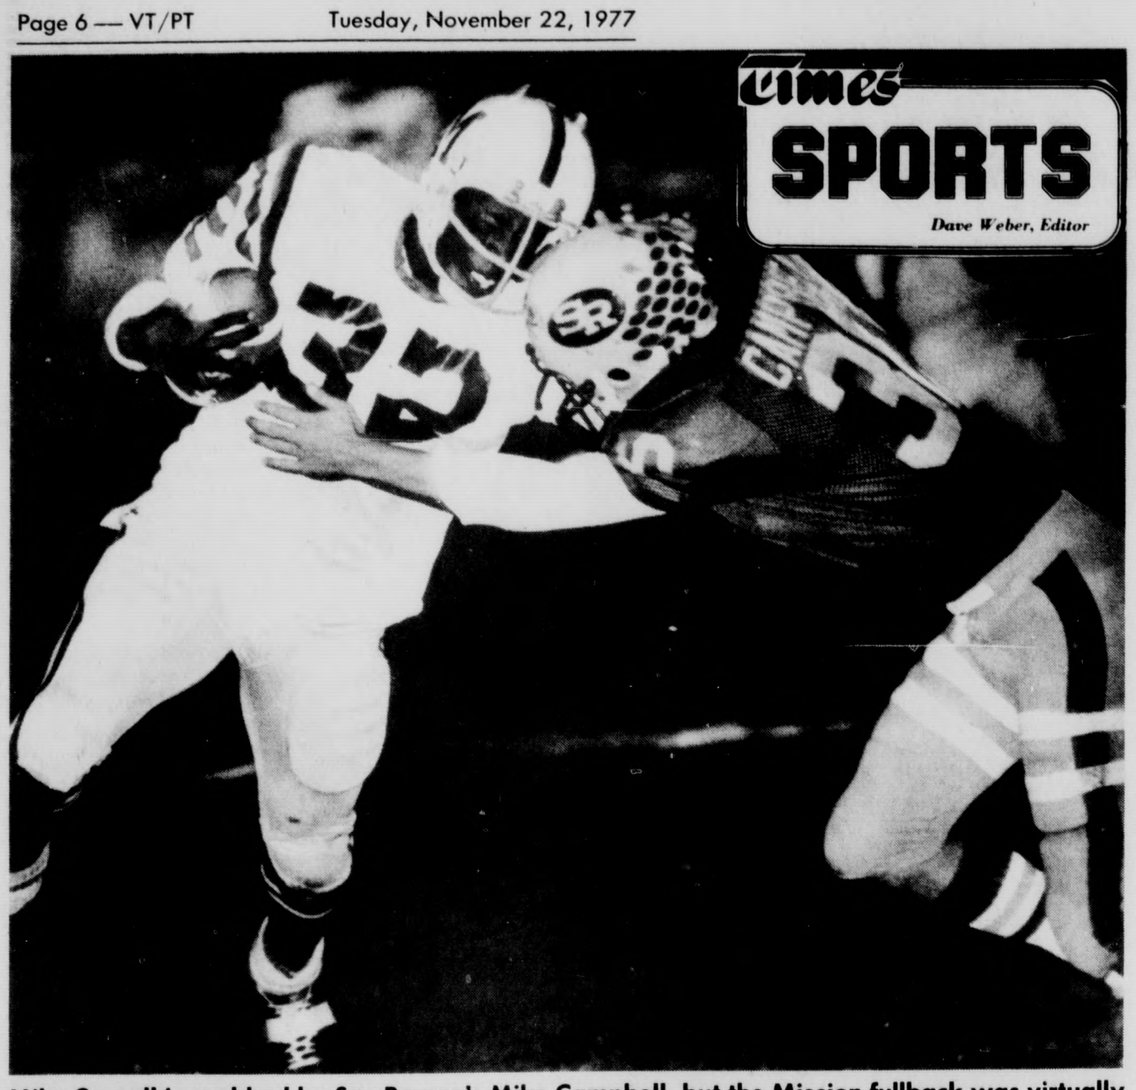
First we must consider HOW NOT TO LIFT. The tendency of most people is to stoop over at the waist with back horizontal, or even lower, arms outstretched, pulling an object up like a derrick. The load is far away from center of gravity of the body.

Muscles of the spinal column and back are mainly to support the body in a standing "column" position. They are not to lift the whole trunk from a horizontal "beam" position to the upright — especially with a heavy load hung far out at the end! Such a lifting position results in sprained back muscles, pulled ligaments, and sacroiliac strains.

Now we will consider HOW TO LIFT. First, if the object to be lifted is too large or heavy, get help. Do not try it alone. Otherwise, get up close with feet to each side of the load, bend knees and squat down in front of it with back held up toward vertical position. Get a secure grip under center of the load with arms close to the body and straight as possible. Here is the secret — it is the large, heavy muscles of the buttocks, thighs and legs, which are strongly attached to the skeleton, that do the lifting. In this positon the leverage of the legs, spinal column, and shoulders is far more efficient, and by leaving arms at full length, back upright and relaxed, you can push up slowly and easily to a standing position.

Remember: Don't lift (1) stooped over; (2) with bent back; (3) off balance; (4) with outstretched arms. Do lift (1) from squat; (2) with bent knees; (3) with back straight; witharms close.

For more information on HOW TO LIFT, call Dr. R. J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.



Mike Carnell is grabbed by San Ramon's Mike Campbell, but the Mission fullback was virtually unstoppable.

Miscues don't produce

Mistakes won't win for you in the North Coast Section playoffs, as Lyle Setencich and the San Ramon football team discovered Saturday night.

The Wolves made the most of the mistakes against highly - touted Mission San Jose, helping the 11-0 Warriors pin a season - ending 42-14 loss on the East Bay Athletic Leaue champions during a cold evening in Livermore.

"This was by far the worst game we've played," said SR quarterback Guy Houston during the game's final minutes. "They have one good running back and about four good linemen, but that's all. They're not all that good — but I can't belive we played as bad as we did."

"They are just a superior club," Setencich remarked afterwards, "with superior talent up front. Have you seen a better back than Carnell?" Mike, that is, one of California's premier runners with 39 touchdowns and over 2200 yards to his credit this season.

The 6-1, 185 pound major college prospect lived up to his billing, picking up 220 yards on 37 carries for five touchdowns, not including kickoff and punt return yardage.

San Ramon forced MSJ into a kick situation early in the contest, and took the ball on its own 44, but Houston coughed it over to the Warriors on the next play to start the winners' first scoring drive. Carnell got the call on third-and-six eight plays later, running it in from 13 yards out to give MSJ a 6-0 advantage at 1:38 of the first quarter.

Starting on SR's 24 after a Lobo fumble, the Warriors couldn't move effectively, and faced a fourth - and - three on the 17. Passing up the field goal, MSJ coach Jim Randall gambled and sent fullback Wade Bradford up the middle for 14 and a first - and - goal on the three. Bradford bulled over on the following down to up the Mission advantage to 13-0.

"I felt that the longer we played with them," Setencich quipped, "the less chance we had to beat them. We didn't roll over and die, but they have a super ball club with super talent." Carnell ran the second half kickoff back to the Lobo 48, then capped an 11-play, 48-yard drive with a one-yard plunge less than five minutes into theperiod. A two - point conversion pass — Mission's only pass completion of the game — was successful to make it 21-0.

Out of the blue, San Ramon exploded. Schumann recovered the Warriors' on-side kickoff at his 49 to set the stage for SR's offensive fireworks. Houston wasted no time, flipping a 31 - yard aerial to Davis on the 18, then capping SR's deepest penetration with a scoring toss to Campbell. The conversion pass dropped incomplete, limiting the play to six points, but the Wolves had burst from their shell of complacency.

Play became a little sloppy from that point on, and each team took advantage of the intensity lapse. Houston threw his second interception of the night on third down, giving Mission the ball on the Wolf 33, but Campbell scooped up a second down fumble by MSJ a minute later and rambled 65 yards for SR's second and final tally at 4:14. Houston and Pappalardo got their act together on the passing conversion, shaving two more points off the Warrio lead to make it 35-14.

The Warriors threw only twice on offense, and were content to run for all 311 of their offensive yards. The Wolves got 125 of their 266 yard total from Houston's passes, but lost the game with four critical turnovers, seven penalties for 52 yards, and intangibles like dropped passes and missed tackles.

Setencich, whose Wolves finished the year at 8-3, is probably glad he's seen the last of Livermore High for awhile. It was also here where his team sufferedtheir only EBAL loss to the Cowboys, 14-6.

Eagles drop in rankings

Kennedy High of Richmond was knocked from the number one ranking for the first time this year as the East Bay Prepwriter's football poll was released this morning.

Mission San Jose, all year long within a first-place vote of the dethroned Eagles, finally climbed into the top spot following a 42-14 thrashing of East Bay Athletic League champion, San Ramon, in the North Coast Southern Section 4-A playoff.

Antioch High romped over Kennedy 22-0 to vacate the spot. The Panthers, now rated second, face Mission in the NCS 4-A championship game Friday night at Diablo Valley College in Concord.

San Ramon finished the year in fifth, while Monte Vista was ranked seventh and Livermore tenth. Dublin was an honorable mention.

In the 2-A poll, San Lorenzo edged into the top spot after a 15-0 blanking of Encinal, the former tenant.

San Lorenzo, which has come come a long way since losing to the EBAL's California High, meets Alhambra in the 2-A football championship.

Oakland High received three first - place votes.

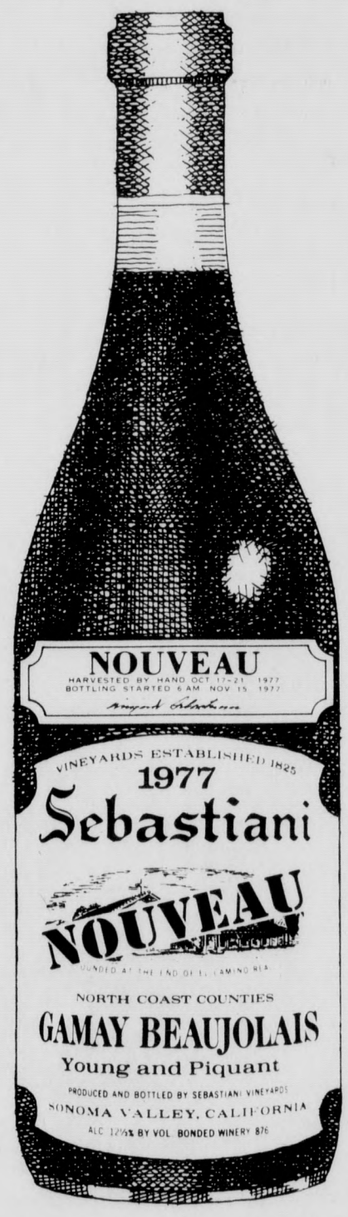
The 1977 Harvest
At Thanksgiving



Nouveau

This November 15th Sebastiani Vineyards bottled its 1977 Nouveau Gamay Beaujolais. Your favorite gourmet restaurant and wine shop will be featuring this wine soon. Please ask for it so that you too can share in this Sebastiani family wine making innovation.

We were inspired by the French custom of consuming Gamay Beaujolais in the year of its harvest. If the Nouveau Gamay Beaujolais is good, the harvest can be judged a success. 1977 is a very good year for California wines.

Classic lures 8-year olds

The Holiday Classic youth soccer tournament has drawn a large field, as usual, for its three-day run this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Teams from throughout North America will be competing in four age divisions. Games will be played at tMe Pleasanton Sports Park and at Aquatic Park.

The latter will be the site of all the championship contests Sunday. Today, the Times takes a look at the field in the under-8 division:

Concord Blackhawks — 16-1-2 on the year, the 'Hawks won the Concord Athletic League home championship and have been together about six months. Their coach is Armando Diaz.

Fremont Stingers — 8-1-0 on the year, the Stingers won the right to play in the Holiday Classic by taking the Fremont City tournament. They have outscored their foes, 31-6. Though only three of the players had been on the same team before and only six had ever played soccer before, the Stingers are a strong attacking team with an adequate defense.

Keith Crane has scored 22 of the Stingers 31 goals this season and rookie Randy Hoerz has exceled in goal. Middle fullback Aaron Wallace Mas shone as have Craig Rueber and Trevor Wilharm.

Sunnyvale Spartans — 7-1-0 on the year, the Spartans have outscored their opponents, 42-5. All but two players are seven years old and attitude and defense have been the strong points. Fullbacks Tim Antonopolos and Scot Murray anchor the defense in front of goalie Paul Maytorena. The offense is average.

Las Vegas Cosmos — 8-0 on the year, only five boys on the side had ever played soccer before. Peter Pintiar coaches the Silver State club.

Livermore Green Hornets — 6-3 on the year, the Hornets are atop the Livermore house league despite a low scoring offense that holds but a 7-3 edge in total goals. A new club with five first-year players and two six-year olds, tMe Hornets are an improving team. Center forward Tom Pappas has been called the best player on the team while hustling Mark Grant and Mickey Hill have done well as has Beau Grant, an ace ball handler with speed.

Dublin Rowdies — 7-0 on the season, the Rowdies have dominated tMeir opponents, 33-2 on the scoreboard. Strong up the middle and on dfense, the Rowdies have eight returnees, nine seven-year olds and six six-year olds. Rey Ruiz, a good shooting 13-goal scorer, and Paul Chavez, a ball-stalking 19 goal-scorer, complement each other on the front line.

John Bowen is an aggressive striker while John Hielckert and Robert Fernandez are strong kickers and defenders.

Pleasanton Ensigns — 4-0-3 in the host club's Ballistic United house league, the Ensigns are in first place thanks to their defense and wings. Greg Reiter has scored seven goals, Mike Grant is a huetler, Jeff DeBenedetti has played well in goal and Tim Manning is a strong defender.

Pleasanton Eagles — 5-4-4 in the Ballistic league, the Eagles have scored 23 goals to their oppoenents nine and are second in the BU standings. They have no outstanding players, but are balanced. All have played at least one year of soccer.

Niners smothered by L.A.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Those often-unnoticed linemen had a day of glory as the Los Angeles Rams ended the San Francisco 49ers' four-game winning streak.

"If we had gotten the ball in at the end of the first half it would have given us a big lift," said 49ers Coach Ken Meyer, whose team's spirits were instead somewhat deflated by a Rams' goal-line stand.

"We had a goal-line stand last week, too, and we knew the 49ers didn't have to score," defensive tackle Larry Brooks said after Sunday's 23-10 victory which left the Rams two games ahead of Atlanta in the NFC West.

With a first down at the Los Angeles one-yard line after a pass interference penalty in the end zone, the 49ers figured to make a touchdown and tie the score at 10-10 before halftime. Three running plays later they were at the two, and Jim Plunkett was rushed hard on a pass which went incomplete.

"We thought about going for a field goal but believed we could get it across the goal line," concluded Meyer.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My daughter is expecting a baby and I'm worried because she hasn't quit smoking. She's been trying to but just can't seem to conquer the habit. She says she can't sleep and she becomes too nervous when she tries to quit. — C.H.

DEAR C.H.: Studies indicate that women smokers seem to have a more difficult time kicking the habit than men. Some women are concerned about stopping because smoking helps to keep their weight down. For many, it helps them to cope with daily pressures, and it's also a symbol of freedom and liberation. It doesn't take too much thinking to realize that a cigarette has nothing to do with being free or liberated, but many women are brainwashed by advertising campaigns.

Columbia psychologist Stanley Schachter, a heavy smoker himself, after a series of experiments, concluded that people smoke because they're physically addicted to nicotine. He says smoking doesn't reduce anxiety or calm the nerves, but not smoking increases anxiety by throwing the smoker into withdrawal.

There are ways to break the habit, however. Encourage your daughter to try one of the many current methods that have been helpful to many and might work for her.

I think it's especially important for her to stop since recent studies reveal that cigarette smoking during pregnancy nearly doubles the chance of having a miscarriage. The study didn't find a significant link between the number of cigarettes smoked and the risk of miscarriage. Heavy smokers seemed to run a slightly higher risk, but the difference between heavy and light smokers were not as striking as the differences between smokers and non-smokers.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband has a terrible habit of making smart remarks about attractive women's legs or breasts whenever we're out. I feel this is a put-down. I don't like it and I've told him so, but it doesn't do any good. I'd give anything to break him of this rotten, demeaning habit. Any suggestions? — L.F.

Dear L.F.: Yes. You might try to make your point by doing the same thing with males. The next time he comments on a woman's legs or breasts, you might admire the cut of a man's pants, the breadth of his shoulders, or the sexy way he walks.

I think you'll find that your husband becomes angry. At first he may pretend to be amused, but men don't really like being treated like sex objects any more than women do. The reason is that you can replace objects or any collection of parts quite easily. The infant loves the breast because it means food, but very soon, the baby begins to see mother as a whole human being, not just a milk machine. Mother has a voice, a smile, a way of talking, a brain and a personality in addition to the breasts.

Men who see only breasts often suffer from other problems of immaturity. Your husband may need more reassurance from you that he is loved and this may be his immature way of asking for it. He may be trying to make you pay more attention to him. Sometimes, men who are insecure in their sexual role behave in an adolescent way in order to try to prove or emphasize their masculinity. Actually, to any perceptive person, they're doing just the opposite, but they may not know this.

Let me know the results of your test if you decide to turn the tables on him.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB – I have been told I have high blood pressure. I am taking a mild medication. I exercise, am about eight to 10 pounds overweight, and seem to have no particular stress in my life.

I'm 58, and my blood pressure has been 170 over 100. Some have mentioned that it might be caused by drinking nothing but commercially softened water at home. Could the salt in this contribute enough salt to my system to be a problem?

DEAR READER – Your blood pressure is not alarming, but statistics do show that low normal readings are associated with a lower incidence of heart attacks, strokes and other problems associated with disease of the arteries. It will help you if you can regulate your life to have a more normal reading.

The first order of business is to get rid of every pound of fat you can. Keep your exercise program going, and cut down on your salt.

There are differences in water softeners, but some do increase the salt (sodium) content in the water. In addition, some scientists studying heart disease have claimed that soft water in the pipes dissolves out heavy metals that are toxic to the kidneys and may lead to high blood pressure.

If you want soft water for drinking purposes, why don't you just get bottled distilled water. I would suspect the mild medicines you are receiving help eliminate salt from your body.

DEAR DR. LAMB – My husband is in his late 40s. He is a big eater, but does heavy physical labor, so usually uses up the energy from his big meal.

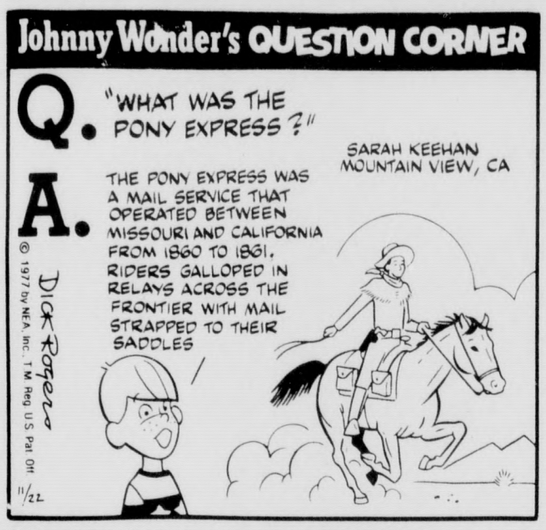
He eats no breakfast, has a light lunch, and a big dinner. He doesn't have much indigestion except during the night – two nights in a row this week, he got up quickly to vomit, and had a lot of acidity. He says he's not sick.

About a year ago, he had bleeding from his bowels, it stopped but came back once. What do you think causes the vomiting?

DEAR READER – Anyone who has unexplained vomiting must have a medical examination. There is no other way to find out the cause and it can be a symptom of an important illness. He could have a haital hernia with food regurgitating back into his lower esophagus after that heavy evening meal.

He could have an ulcer or an obstruction of the outlet of the stomach. He could even have a malignancy. I hate to alarm you, but you simply cannot ignore that kind of history. While waiting to see the doctor, I think you should have him change his eating habits and eat a normal breakfast, a reasonable lunch, and a very light evening meal at least three hours before he goes to bed. He should stop coffee, cigarettes and alcohol if he uses these, BUT he simple must see a doctor.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHAT WAS THE PONY EXPRESS?"
SARAH KEEHAN
MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA
A. THE PONY EXPRESS WAS A MAIL SERVICE THAT OPERATED BETWEEN MISSOURI AND CALIFORNIA FROM 1860 TO 1861. RIDERS GALLOPED IN RELAYS ACROSS THE FRONTIER WITH MAIL STRAPPED TO THEIR SADDLES

Dick Rogers

Before 1860 there was no quick way to send mail from the eastern half of the United States to the Far West. There was no telegraph or railroad across the western frontier.

In 1860 a plan was made to send mail by "pony express." Daring young riders with fast horses were stationed along a 1,900 mile route between St. Joseph, Missouri and Sacramento, California.

The pony-express riders galloped in relays, from one station to the next, with the mail pouches strapped to their saddles.

As a rider reached a station, he would jump onto a fresh horse for the dash to the next station.

The ride from Missouri to California took 8 to 10 days and was filled with danger of attack by Indians.

The pony express ended in 1861, 18 months after it started. The first coast-to-coast telegraph was now completed, making it possible to send messages across the nation within minutes.

Nov. 22, 1977

More responsibility will be thrust upon you this coming year. It could have a beneficial effect on your career. It will cut into your free time, so you must make a wise choice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't make the mistake of underestimating your adversary if involved in negotiation today, or you'll come out on the short end.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The boss has been a little impatient. You haven't been performing up to his expectations. Today you'll get back in his good graces.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Anticipating that a situation is foredoomed could cause you a lot of needless worry today. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the outcome.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you're very liberal with friends but today you may find yourself a little too possessive. Have the good sense to back off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can't reach someone essential to your present plans. A third party can make the entree, so let her knock on the door in your behalf.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll probably reap the rewards you seek today, but you're bound to do it the hard way. It's almost as if you create the obstacles.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone in a key position might try to complicate things in a commercial matter today. You'll be able to circumvent his influence, however.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Shoulder responsibilities today rather than look for someone to share the load. You'll get things done more efficiently that way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're pushing an ambitious project and it seems to have a couple square wheels, set it aside. Later, things will run much more smoothly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Goals can be reached today, but not through risky methods. Use only those ways you know to be effective.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) One fond of you has been trying to warn you of something for your own good. Today, by experience, you may learn of it for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There has been something that you've felt would be difficult to achieve. An ally may show by example today that it's within your capabilities.

One of the most important things for declarer to learn is to give the cards a chance.

Take this Terence Reese hand from the Bridge World magazine as an example. Three notrump is a much better contract than four spades, but there is also no problem at four spades.

East wins the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returns the queen. South's king is ruffed by West and a trump led.

Declarer has lost two tricks and has no place to put his last two diamonds. Does he have to go down one?

Even looking at all the cards it is hard to find a way to make the hand but if a very astute declarer gives the cards a chance he can get home.

South simply draws trumps; cashes the ace of clubs and hearts. Then he leads the four of hearts and finesses dummy's 10. He needs to find the jack of hearts in the West hand. Now South leads dummy's queen of clubs and discards his king of hearts after East follows.

West takes his king and has to put dummy back in to cash a heart and a club for two diamond discards.

Kids reseed Mt. Diablo

By KIM FAVORS
Times Staff Writer

MT. DIABLO — For most people, shoveling 2 1/2 tons of steer manure probably would be a distasteful — if not downright yucky — chore.

But 166 youths gave up their Saturday to do just that — shovel manure across five acres atop Mt. Diablo.

What makes their achievement beneficial is that the dried manure contained live seed which park officials hope will cover the mountain with foliage lost during the 6,000-acre blaze in August.

"We think it's great," parent Jerrie Van Natta said Saturday afternoon as she helped a youngster spade manure into a burlap sack.

"The kids have a good time, the parents think it's great and it benefits the mountain."

For five hours, 4-H club members from throughout Contra Costa County raked seed-filled manure through the Juniper picnic area southwest of the summit.

The youngsters, aged nine through 19, and their parent advisers arrived at 10 a.m., armed with rakes, shovels, sacks, a rubber chicken named Horace, two footballs, and bulky jackets to ward off the chill.

Greeting them was the manure, piled nearly as high as the two outhouses adjacent to it. It was donated by Diablo Ranch and trucked to the picnic area by park rangers.

By 12:30, when the club members broke for some of Van Natta's infamous "stone soup," the manure pile had dwindled to sandbox size.

"Stone soup" has become a highlight of the 4-H Clubs' annual work day atop Mt. Diablo.

In it goes anything and everything, sometimes even stones.

"This year we've got every kind of vegetable imaginable, plus beef, chicken, pork and lamb," Van Natta said, "but luckily, no stones."

She "cooked up" the soup in 1975, the first year 4-Hers began their volunteer cleanup work on the mountain.

"We got so dirty we thought of ourselves as hobos, and so we have a hobo stone soup," she said.

Every participant must bring an ingredient. Those who don't must put stones in the pot; they usually wind up with the rocks in their own bowls and cups.

This year there were no stones, just 10 gallons of steaming, tasty soup and a lot of tired but smiling faces.

Van Natta, whose husband is a park ranger, said the land chosen for replanting had been "criscrossed" by tractors during the August fire.

Cousteau on again tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another season of Jacques Cousteau's underwater specials always is good news. The good news, a series called "The Cousteau Odyssey," starts on public TV tonight in most cities.

His one-hour premiere show - there'll be three more this season - concerns a World War I controversy: the sinking in 1916 of a British hospital ship, the Britannic, in the Aegean Sea near Greece.

No wounded were aboard at the time, although the Britannic, sister ship of the Titanic, carried 1,136 persons - nurses, doctors and the crew. Fortunately, all but 30 survived the sinking.

Cousteau & Co. set out in this well-photographed show to explore the sunken ship and asked such questions as:

— Was the Britannic sunk by a German torpedo or a mine?

— Was it, in violation or the rules of war, carrying either war material or fresh troops headed for combat?

— Why did the huge ship, supposedly made sturdier after the Titanic's fatal pause to take on ice, sink so quickly?

The show opens with Cousteau chatting about the sinking with eight elderly survivors, all but one convinced the ship was torpedoed.

Then the deep-dive research gets under way. As with many Cousteau specials, there's an almost-obligatory moment of mild tension.

Seems the crew of his ship, the Calypso, even though aided by sonar, has trouble finding the sunken hulk of the Britannic.

But all ends well, of course, and a three-man team of divers is dispatched 370 cold, dangerous feet beneath the Aegean to study the barnacle and coral-encrusted remains of the ship.

Wearing tanks of oxygen, nitrogen and helium, they only can stay down 15 minutes because of the extreme pressure. Then they must spend nearly three hours in a decompression chamber.

It's hard, physically difficult work for young men. But even Cousteau, at 67, makes the dive - which says something not only about his curiousity but also of a wonderful spirit undamaged by age.

An equally moving moment comes when Sheila Mitchell, 86, a volunteer nurse aboard the Britannic when it sank, eagerly climbs in a special diving saucer for a close-up look at the ship.

An animated, lively woman who now lives in Edinburgh, Scotland, she obviously is having the time of her life as she takes her first look at the colors of Cousteau's underwater world.

As for the answers Cousteau sought to the sinking, well, suffice it to say they'll disappoint those who thought the Britannic carried war goods or was done in by a heartless German U-boat captain.

The show was made for KCET as part of a three-season series the Atlantic Richfield Co. has bankrolled for nearly $4 million. If the premiere is typical, the bankroll is being well spent.

The Waltons Change

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's an odd thing about "The Waltons," that gentle clan of the Virginia hills. If you don't watch the show much, you tend to think they're still in the Depression era.

But a recent episode had them pausing to hear the war news from Europe, had one Walton boy home from National Guard training and another wishing he could become a Royal Air Force fighter pilot.

And last week, a family crisis occured when Grandpa Walton invited Army units on maneuvers to bivouac on his land.

In short, that distant war in Europe is coming closer and closer for members of the durable CBS family series created by Earl Hamner, who grew up in the rural town of Schuyler, Va.

Last season, he says, the series combined the years 1937-38 "because we'd just about used up every aspect of the Depression and we didn't want to start repeating things.

"And since the Depression always had been the villain, we felt we needed a new villain in the form of World War II, which would be especially threatening to a family with that many (four) boys."
